

World Bank Group Strategy for Fragility, Conflict and Violence (FCV)
 Consultation Meeting with Government and public institutions representatives

Feedback Summary

Date: 06/27/2019, 10.00 am to 11.30 am

Location: Ouagadougou, Burkina Faso

Audience: Government and public institutions representatives

Overview: Elisee Ouedraogo (Acting country Manager, Burkina Faso) and Olivier Lavinal (FCV Group) welcomed the participants present in Ouagadougou. Lionel Yaro (WB, Burkina Faso) moderated the session. Olivier presented the FCV strategy concept. Participants were then invited to ask questions and to express their views. The following summary highlights recommendations, comments and feedback raised during the meeting.

Specific Feedback from Stakeholders
1. Overall	Participants welcomed the FCV Strategy Concept Note. Overall, they commended the team for a solid conceptual framework and encouraged the WBG to reflect the challenges encountered in Burkina Faso to do more in FCV settings at country and regional levels. Participants welcomed the clear focus on prevention and the thinking on how to support the legitimacy of the state and its institutions. In their majority, participants highlighted the need for inclusive growth as a pathway out of fragility. Participants highlighted the need for economic and social transformation (and thereafter the need to work on behavioral economics) and the importance to be selective when engaging in FCV settings. The question of access to basic services of populations across the national territory was prioritized, as well as that of building reliable and dynamic data to inform country strategies and programming.
2. Theme: Priority areas	Participants highlighted the following priority areas of engagement: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Legitimacy and capacity of the State and its institutions • Focus on measuring impact through evidence-based (data) policy making • Access to basic services as a conduit for inclusive growth • Build capacities to achieve digital transformation • Focus on people: promote consensus-building to address key challenges such as natural resources and human capital (with special focus on women and youth)
3. Theme: Economic and social transformation as a key objective	Participants highlighted the need to develop an incentive-based approach (actors) and use behavioral economics to assess perceptions and values as key factors of fragility/resilience. In this regard, the WBG

was encouraged to further strengthen its analytical/policy advice to positively change mindsets towards development outcomes and promote evidence-based policy making. It is about building models to problem-solving and development-oriented policy mechanisms of learning and about ownership for leaders and stakeholders. This requires to further develop inclusive approaches structured around multi-stakeholder dialogue and embed strategic communication in WBG programming.
4. Theme: Adapting WBG programming and processes to be fit-for-purpose
Participants outlined the importance for the WBG to adapt its programming and procedures to be fit for purpose. Building on the FCV Strategy and the focus on prevention (early warning systems), the WBG should ensure that its programming/project cycle is adapted to the specific challenges of FCV settings. This entails to strengthen the analytical tools and to create clear linkages between knowledge and operations. This also speaks to the security-development nexus and the more innovative work that the WBG is conducting through a public finance lens. Participants called for more operational flexibility on the WBG side and encouraged the team to build on good lessons learned in Burkina Faso. Overall, this requires that the WBG invest more in building local capacities and work more closely even with regional actors (ECOWAS; African Union; African Development Bank).
5. Theme: Adopting a comprehensive multi-sector approach
Considering the multiple FCV challenges – including environmental degradation, agro-pastoralists tensions, rising inequalities, land ownership, etc. – participants highlighted the need to develop comprehensive development approaches that cut across the water-energy-food nexus and take into account the impact of climate change on poverty and fragility. This requires operationalizing mechanisms that promote prevention and to work at local level. At municipal level, programs ensure that focus is put on the people and target the most vulnerable populations. This item speaks to the key issue of human capital and to the need for scaling up the capacity building programs. Participatory approaches, coordination and communication can help to prioritize development interventions and strengthen development outcomes.
