

World Bank and Indigenous Peoples: Regional Dialogue

Guna Yala, Panama January, 30-31, 2014 AGENDA

This two-day workshop, part of phase 1 of the Regional Dialogue, brings together indigenous peoples organizations to share lessons learned from the application of the safeguard policy on indigenous peoples, identify the critical issues the safeguards policies review should take into account, and finalize proposal and plan for phase two of the dialogue.

The Technical Committee Abya Yala, representing six indigenous networks in Latin America and the Caribbean supports this phase and with input from all participating groups and the Bank will design the most appropriate communication and socialization tools to build the necessary information base to undertake the Dialogue. The tools will be in the most appropriate format for widespread dissemination.

An information brief of the dialogue is available here on the safeguards review website.
